

Statement of Support for Working Musicians

Every working musician should reasonably expect:

- professional and respectful treatment in the workplace;
- professional and respectful communication with presenters, venues, staff, and stage crew;
- safe working conditions free from physical dangers and harassment of all kinds;
- fair wages;
- clear policies from venues on the sale of merchandise;
- transparent and timely reconciliation of all financial matters;
- consent before live performances are recorded by a presenter (and the destination of those recordings);
- Fair compensation for the use of their music, regardless of the medium (i.e. album sales, downloads, streaming, radio/internet/YouTube, etc.)
- access to affordable healthcare; and
- a dignified and secure retirement.

Darn right, I agree!
